The books which follow: Tobit, Judith, Baruch, Wisdom, Sirach are not in the Hebrew Bible, nor in the Bibles of Protestants. This was also true for the books of the Maccabees. This raises a very serious question: if there is disagreement about some books, what were the criteria for accepting the other books? Should we not go beyond that and admit there is no certainty for any book, but only a common opinion?

Here we should repeat that we have not always had the Bible. For centuries, God’s Word was primarily what the priests and the prophets passed on orally. The very concept of a Bible, a collection of sacred writings, appeared only little by little, after the return of the Old Testament Jews from the Exile, starting especially with Ezra. The Bible originated with the prophets and also with the believing community, Jewish at first, then Christian. In Jesus’ days, everyone considered the books of Moses as Scripture. The Sadducees gave the prophetic books a lower ranking even though all the other religious groups, including the Pharisees themselves, considered them to be inspired. With time, however, other books grouped under the name of Writings, or Wisdom Books, were added to the first books without any particular sequence, and without clearly knowing what degree of authority they should be given.

Some of these books were not written in Hebrew but in Greek, because most Jews were living in Greek-speaking countries. Therefore these books were added in the Greek translation of the Bible before appearing in Palestine where many people understood Greek. As a result there were more books in the Greek Bible used abroad and often even in the synagogues of Palestine.

It was only when the Romans destroyed their nation that the Pharisees called a council in Jamnia in order to recognize the Jewish community (in the year 95). At this council they established a list of inspired Scriptures and systematically excluded all the books written in Greek: as they perceived, God could only have spoken in the language of the Jewish people.

The early Christian church already had its own practice. The apostles used the Greek Bible without differentiating between the various books, and their discussions were focused in the newly written Christian books to determine which ones should be included in the New Testament. In 384, a decree of Pope Damasus definitively established the canon of the Christian Bible, already generally accepted. They kept some books from the Greek Bible, books which the Jews had rejected in Jamnia. They are the so-called deuterocanonical books, that is to say, the books of the second collection.

Twelve centuries later, when the Protestants broke away from the church, they did not dispute the “canon,” namely the choice of the New Testament books. They did disagree, though, about the deuterocanonical books. In the end, they thought it would be safer to exclude them and called them “apocryphal,” that is to say, not authentic.

If we accept that God gradually taught his people all through the Old Testament times, then we can understand the importance of these books which are products of the last three centuries before Christ. They are the connecting links between the Hebraic books and the New Testament books written in Greek. They witness the beginning of the belief in the resurrection of the dead and the first insights that prepare the revelation of the Word and the Spirit.

The discussions concerning the deuterocanonical books remind us that if there is not a Church to determine safely which are the inspired books, no one will be able to say what is word of God and what is not. For a Christian Bible to exist, there must first be a Church which is the heir of the apostles.
The good example of Tobit

1 This is the story of Tobit son of Tobiel, son of Ananiel, son of Adonel, son of Gabael of the race of Asiel, of the tribe of Naphtali. 2 In the days of Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, Tobit was deported from Thisbe, which is to the south of Kedesh of Naphtali in Galilee, above Asher.

3 I, Tobit, have walked in the ways of truth and justice all the days of my life; I have given many alms to my brethren and to those of my countrymen who were deported with me to Nineveh, a city in the country of the Assyrians.

4 When I was a young man in my country, the land of Israel, all the tribe of my father Naphtali broke away from the family of David in Jerusalem. This was, however, the city chosen among all the tribes of Israel to be the place of sacrifice for all the tribes, and where the Temple, the house of God the Most High, had been built and consecrated for all generations forever.

5 All the tribes which had separated, including the tribe of Naphtali my father, sacrificed to the calf Baal which Jeroboam, king of Israel, had set up at Dan, in the hills of Galilee.

6 I, alone, often went to Jerusalem for the feasts, as is ordered for all the people of Israel by an everlasting decree. I went with the first fruits and tithes of my crop, and with the first shearings of the sheep. 7 I gave these for the altar, to the priests, sons of Aaron; I gave a tithe of the corn, the wine, the olives, the pomegranates, the figs and the other fruits to the Levites who officiated in Jerusalem. I sold the second tithe every six years and went to distribute the money in Jerusalem.

8 I gave the third tithe to the orphans and widows and to the pagan converts who had joined the Israelites. I gave them every three years and we ate according to the rules which had been laid down on this matter in the Law of Moses, and according to the recommendations made by Deborah, my father's mother, for my father had left me an orphan.

9 When I reached manhood I married Anna of the race of our forefathers and she bore me a son, Tobias. 10 When I was taken to the city of Nineveh as a prisoner, all my relatives and those of our family ate the pagans' food.

11 But I watched over myself so as not to eat it because I remembered God with all my heart.

12 The Most High let me be esteemed by Shalmaneser and I became his purchaser.

13 I used to go to Media to make purchases for him until he died; one day I left on deposit with Gabael, brother of Gabria, at Rages in Media, a sack containing ten talents of silver.

14 When Shalmaneser died, his son Senacherib became king in his place. In his time the highways of Media were in a state of insurrection so that I could no longer go to Media. 16 In the days of Shalmaneser I gave many alms to my kinsmen. 17 I gave my bread to those who were hungry, my garments to those who were naked, and if I saw anyone of my tribe dead, and his body thrown over the ramparts of Nineveh I would bury him. 18 I buried secretly those whom King Sennacherib killed on returning from Judea in the days when he was punished by the king of Heaven because of the blasphemies which he had uttered. In his anger he slew a great number of Jews. The king looked for their bodies but could not find them. 19 One of the inhabitants of Nineveh went and told the king that I had buried them, so I went into hiding.

Then I learned that they were looking for me to put me to death. I was afraid and fled to a distance. 20 All my goods were confiscated and nothing was left to me that was not taken for the royal treasury, except Anna my wife and Tobias my son.

21 But only forty days had passed when Sennacherib was killed by his two sons. They fled to Mount Ararat and his son Esarhaddon became king in Sennacherib’s place. Esarhaddon appointed Ahikar, the son of my brother Anael, over all the administration. 22 Ahikar intervened on my behalf and I returned to Nineveh. My nephew Ahikar was head of the cup bearers, keeper of the seals, administrator and accountant. Esarhaddon made him second only to himself.

1When I returned to my house, my wife Anna and my son Tobias were given back to me. At the feast of Pentecost, the sacred feast of the Seven Weeks, they prepared a good meal for me and I sat down to eat. 2 I saw the many dishes and said to my son: “Go and bring as many as you can find of our relatives who are in need and who remember the Lord. I will wait here for them.”

3 When Tobias returned, he said: “Father, one of ours has been strangled and thrown into the public square.” 4 Before I ate anything I hurried out and carried this man into the house and waited till sunset to bury him.

5 When I returned home I washed myself and ate my food in sorrow. 6 I remembered the prophecy which Amos uttered against Bethel: “Your feasts will be turned into mourning. All your songs will be turned into laments.” 7 and I wept.

After sunset I went out and, after I had dug a trench, I buried the man. 8 My neighbors mocked me, saying: “He no longer fears to be put to death for doing that; he had to flee but look he is again burying the dead.” 9 That same night, after I had buried the body, I returned home. I washed myself and went out into the courtyard to sleep against the wall; my face was uncovered because of the heat. 10 I did not see that there were sparrows on the wall of the courtyard and, as my eyes were open, the hot droppings from the sparrows fell into my eyes and formed a white film on my eyes. I went to find doctors to attend to me for medical treatment but the more ointments they smeared on my eyes, the more blind I became because of the film. Finally I became totally blind. I suffered from blindness for four years. All my brothers were burdened because of me. Ahikar kept me for two years before he departed for Elymiade.

11 My wife Anna worked hard at a woman’s task, weaving. 12 On the seventh day of the month of March she cut the cloth and delivered it to her employers. They paid her wages and gave her, over and above, a young goat for food. 13 When she returned home the kid began to cry. I said to her, “Where does the little kid come from? Did you steal it? Return it to its owners for we are not allowed to eat anything that is stolen.”

14 But she said, “It is a gift which has been given to me in addition to my wages.” “I don’t believe it. I tell you to return it to its owners.” I was ashamed of her. She replied, “What about your own almsgiving and your good deeds? I have to put up with all this from you.”

Prayer of Tobit

1 Distressed, I wept and prayed and expressing my sorrow, I said, 2 “You are just, O Lord; all your actions and all your ways are merciful and just; your judgments are always true and just. 3 Remember me, Lord, and look on me. Do not punish me for my sins nor for the wrongs I have committed through ignorance. Pardon the sins which my fathers have committed in your sight, 4 for they disobeyed your commandments. You have allowed us to suffer pillage, captivity to suffer all this to enter into his glory?” (Lk 24:26).

He is in solidarity with his sinner people and finds it just to be punished, even though he asks to be freed from this punishment.

He feels incapable of fighting alone in life, and asks for death, but leaves everything in God’s hands.

His prayer is to ask for strength and the ability to fulfill what God says and demands and not to and death. You have allowed us to be mocked by all the pagan nations among whom we have been dispersed. 9 Ah well! All your judgments are just when you choose to punish me for my sins and those of my fathers, because we have not accomplished your will, nor have we sincerely obeyed your commands. We have not walked before you in truth.

6 Do with me as you will. Order my life taken from me, and turn me into dust, because I prefer death to life. In this way free me and let me return to dust. It is better for me to die than to live, because these unjust reproaches have caused me great distress. Command that I be now released from trials, and let me enter my eternal dwelling place. Do not turn your face away from me."

Sara’s misfortune

7 That same day, at Ecbatana in Media, Sara, the daughter of Ragouel, was insulted in a similar way by her father’s young maidservants. Sara had had seven husbands, but the demon Asmodeus had killed each one of them before the marriage had been consummated. The maidservants said, “It was you who killed your husbands. You have had seven husbands and you have not enjoyed marital relationship with any of them. Why do you punish us? Since they are dead, go and join them. May we never see a son or daughter of yours!”

10 That same day Sara was so distressed in mind that she went to the upper room in her father’s house. She wished to hang herself. But she thought better of it and said: “If people ever reproached my father and said to him: ‘You had an only daughter whom you cherished and she hanged herself because she was unhappy,’ I would cause my father in his old age to die of grief. It is better for me not to hang myself but to ask the Lord that I may die and not live to hear any more insults.”

11 At that moment she stretched forth her hands towards the window and prayed, saying, “You are blessed, O Lord my God, and blessed is your holy and glorious Name throughout the ages. May all your works praise you forever. 12 Lord I have turned my eyes and my face towards you. 13 Command that I be set free from the earth and that I may hear no more insults. 14 You know, O Lord, that I am pure of all contact with man; 15 that I have not defiled my name, nor my father’s name in the country of my captivity. I am my father’s only daughter. He has no other son or daughter who can inherit from him, neither has he a close relative who can be given to me as a husband. So, after my seven husbands are dead, I have no one to live for. If it does not seem good to you, O Lord, that I should die, command that people will respect me and have pity on me and that I may hear no more insults.”

16 The Lord in his glory heard the prayer of Tobit and of Sara and he sent Raphael to heal them both – to give back his sight to Tobit and to give Sara, the daughter of Ragouel, to Tobit’s son Tobias, as his wife. Also, Raphael would enchain the wicked demon Asmodeus so that Sara would be the wife of Tobias.

At the same time Tobit, who had gone for a short walk, returned to the house; and Sara, the daughter of Ragouel, came down from the upper room.

Tobit, now old, sends Tobias to a distant land

1 The same day Tobit remembered the money which he had deposited with Gabael at Rages in Media, and he said to himself: 2 “I have asked for death, had I better not call Tobias and tell him about this money before I die?”

3 He called Tobias and said to him: “My son, when I die, see to my burial. Look after your mother. Honor her all the days of your life. Do what pleases her and do not cause her any pain. 4 Remember, my son, that she suffered much pain on your account when you were in her womb. When she dies, bury present to God his own plan and ask him to realize it, as we often do when we pray.

• 7. When we find ourselves in Sara’s situation, we immediately blame God.

Sara thinks about her problem and, in thinking, she sees that she must change her mind and must not ask for death. When we look at one isolated event in life, we can despair, but if we look at the whole, we will always find some reason to keep on struggling.

Sara’s reason to keep on living is her love for her father and her desire to give him heirs.

Whenever there is despair it is because we look only at one aspect of life as, for example, the economic aspect. Oftentimes, someone who fights for a cause, or a ruler, wants to give up everything because he is being criticized, without looking at all the good he would not accomplish if he quit.

• 4.1 At the moment when the young Tobit sets out in his journey, his father transmits to him all his wisdom. Honesty, of course, in all sectors of life, knowing that God is just and that he never forgets to reward those who serve him – Tobit speaks from a long experience of life and an awareness of the providence of God.

There follows an invitation to give “alms,” a word which seems old-fashioned but which simply means sharing. However poor the Jewish people may have been, giving the tenth part of their incomes seemed quite normal.

Then comes the command of marrying a girl her next to me, in the same tomb. 5 Always remember the Lord our God. Do not consent to sin or go against his commandments. Act justly all the days of your life, and do not walk in the paths of wrongdoing, 6 for, if you act uprightly, you will be successful in all you do.

7 Give alms from what you have to those who act justly and do good. Do not be grudging when you give alms. Do not turn away your face from anyone who is poor so that God may not turn away his face from you. 8 Give alms in proportion to the amount you have; if you have little, do not be afraid to give alms according to the little you have.

9 In this way you are storing up treasure against the day of tribulation, because almsgiving frees us from death and keeps us from wandering in the darkness. 10 For, in fact, almsgiving is, for the one who practices it, a precious treasure in the eyes of God.

11 Keep yourself, my son, from all unlawful sexual relations and, above all, take a wife from the tribe of your fathers. Do not take a foreign woman, one who does not belong to the tribe of our fathers, because we are children of the prophets. Remember, my son, that in former times our fathers, Noah, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob took wives from among their relatives so that they might be blessed in their children and that their race might possess the land. 12 Love your relatives and do not despise the sons and daughters of your people to the point where you would take a foreign woman as your wife. Pride brings about ruin and your complete downfall; in laziness are found extreme humiliation and indigence; laziness is the mother of want, hunger, famine.

13 Do not keep back overnight the wages of any man who has worked for you but give them as soon as possible. If you serve God, you will be rewarded.

Take care in all your actions and behave correctly in all you do. 15 Do not do to another what you would hate done to yourself. Do not drink wine to the point of drunkenness; do not let drunkenness be a life-long companion. 16 Give your bread to those who are hungry and your clothes to those who are naked; give alms of everything you have over. 17 Scatter your bread on the tombs of the just; do not give it to those who are sinners. 18 Take counsel of those who are wise and do not despise any useful advice.

19 In all circumstances bless the Lord and ask him to make your ways upright; and to make your plans and projects succeed because not every nation has true wisdom. It is the Lord who gives everything and he humbles those whom he wishes. My son, remember my advice and do not let it be erased from your heart.

20 I also wish to mention the ten talents of silver which I placed on deposit with Gabael, son of Gabria, at Rages in Media. 21 Do not fear, my son, because we have become poor. If you fear God, if you abstain from all sin and if you do what is pleasing in God’s sight – in this way you will have great wealth.”

5 Tobias spoke to Tobit, “Father, I shall do everything you have asked. 2 But how can I get the money from this man. He does not know me and I do not know him. What proof of identity shall I give him to make him trust me and give me the money? Also, I do not know the way to Media.”

3 Tobit gave Tobias a receipt and said to him, “My son, find a trustworthy man to go with you, and on your return I shall give him a salary until he dies. When you reach Rages, collect the money from the man Gabael.”

He needs a companion and is given an angel

• 4 Tobias went to look for a man and he found Raphael. Raphael was an angel but Tobias did not know it. 5 Tobias said to Raphael, “Can you go with me to Rages in Media? Do you know the place?” 6 The angel said to Tobias, “I will go with you. I know the way and I have even spent a night with your kinsman, Gabael.”

7 Tobias said to Raphael, “Wait for me. I am going to speak to my father. I want you to come with me to Media and I will pay you.” 8 Raphael said to Tobias, “Go, but do not delay.” 9 Tobias went in and said to his father, “I have found the man who will go with me.” His father said, “Bring this man to me. I want to know the name of his tribe. I want to know if I can trust him to go with you.” Tobias went out and called Raphael. Tobias said to Raphael, “Young man, my father wants to see you.” 10 Raphael entered the house and approached Tobit. 11 Tobit said to him, “Friend, what is the name of your tribe and of your family? Tell me.” 12 Raphael said to him, “Are you looking for a tribe and a family or for a hired man to go with your son?” Tobit said to him, “Friend, I want to know your tribe and your name.” 13 Raphael said, “I am Azarias, the son of Ananias the Great, one of your of his race and his religion. Of course we find there the Jewish consciousness of being a race which must stand apart from others by faithfulness to its mission. For Christians also, marriage cannot only be the access to shared love but should always serve a mission.

• 5.4 The journey of Tobias to Rages will also be a spiritual experience. He meets an angel of God in human form and this friend, Azarias, will help him with advice. He will lead him to discover the will of God and in so doing Tobias will be able to free Sara from her demon.
kinsmen.” 14 Tobit said to him, “Welcome, my brother! Do not be angry with me because I have tried to find out the name of your tribe and your family, for now I find that you are my kinsman, that you come from a noble and good family. Indeed, I knew Ananias and Nathan, sons of Semaiah the Great. We used to travel together to worship in the city of Jerusalem and bring the firstborn of our sheep, and a tithe of our produce. They did not adopt pagan practices when other countrymen went astray. My friend, you come of good stock. 15 But tell me what salary should I give you, a drachma a day, and whatever is necessary for you as well as for my son? 16 I shall give you something over and above if you return in safety.” They settled on that.

Raphael said to Tobit, “I will go with him. Do not be afraid. We shall set out in safety and return to you in safety, because I am sure of the way.” 17 Then Tobit called his son Tobias and said to him, “My child, prepare what is necessary for the journey and set out with your friend. May the God of Heaven protect you on your way and may he bring you back to me in safety. May his angel go with you on the way.” 18 Then Tobias prepared to leave. He kissed his father and mother and Tobit said to Tobias, “Safe journey!”

18 The two companions were setting off and Tobias’ dog followed him when Anna, the mother of Tobias, burst into tears and said to Tobit, “Why have you sent away our child? Is he not our support as he comes and goes?” 19 Anna said, “What use is it to add money to money? Better we save our son’s life. 20 Is not what God has provided for us enough to live on? 21 Tobias said to her, “Don’t get upset, my sister. He will return in safety. You will see him again. 22 Indeed a good angel will go with him; he will have a successful journey and he will return in safety.”

The fish in the Tigris

6 1 Then Tobias stopped crying. 2 Raphael and Tobias continued their journey and that evening they reached the River Tigris. They spent the night there. 3 As Tobias went to wash his feet, a big fish rose out of the river and tried to swallow Tobias’ foot. 4 Raphael said to Tobias, “Catch that fish!” Tobias seized the fish and drew it to land. 5 Raphael then said to Tobias, “Open the fish. Take out its heart, liver and gall and put them away carefully. Throw away the intestines. The gall, the heart and the liver of this fish are useful remedies.” 6 Tobias did as the angel told him. He opened up the fish, kept the gall, the heart and the liver; then he cooked the fish and ate it.

7 Then the two of them continued their journey until they reached Media. Tobias said to Raphael, “Friend Azarias, what remedy is there in the heart, the liver and the gall of the fish?” 8 Raphael said to him, “If you burn the heart and the liver in the presence of a man or a woman who is tormented by a devil or an evil spirit, their torments will cease. 9 As for the gall, if you smear it on a man whose eyes are covered with a white film, his eyes will be cured.”

10 When they had entered Media and were already approaching Ecbatana, 11 Raphael said to Tobias, “Friend, we shall spend the night at the house of Ragouel. He is a relative of yours. He has no son, just an only daughter called Sara. 12 I will speak to him and ask that he give her to you as your wife. 13 You are the one who is nearest of kin and free to marry her. You alone are of her tribe and you should inherit her father’s goods. The girl is wise, good, courageous and very beautiful and her father is a good man. So listen, friend, tonight we will marry you to her. When we return from Rages, we shall take her with us and introduce her into your home. She belongs to you rather than to any other man according to the Law of Moses, and any trespasser would die. So I know that Ragouel will not give her to any other man.

An obedient son

14 Then Tobias said to Raphael, “Friend Azarias, I have heard that this girl has been given in marriage to seven husbands and they all died in the bridal chamber. I am my father’s only son and I fear that once I have entered the room I shall die, like all those before me, because a demon loves her, and he harms those who approach her. 15 Well, I fear death. I also fear causing my father and mother to die of grief on my account, for they have no other son to bury them.” 16 The angel said to Tobias, “Do you not remember your father’s advice to marry a woman of your own tribe? Well, listen to me, my friend. She will be your wife. Do not worry about the demon as this very night she will become your wife.

17 “When you enter the wedding chamber you will take some glowing embers of incense, and you will put on top of them part of the heart and liver of the fish. 18 As soon as the fire begins to smoke, the demon will smell it and flee never to return. And when you go to Sara, stand up together and call on the all-merciful God. He will keep you safe because he has compassion. Do not be afraid, because from all eternity Sara has been destined to be your wife. You will save her, and she will go with us. And I am sure that she will bear you children.”

19 When Tobias heard Raphael’s words, he loved Sara and his heart became strongly attached to her.
7 When they arrived in Ecbatana Tobias said to Raphael, "Friend Azarias, take me straightway to our friend Ragouel." So Raphael led Tobias to Ragouel's house and they found Ragouel sitting by the door of the courtyard.

Ragouel said to his wife, Edna, "This young man is very like my cousin Tobit!"

Edna questioned them, "Where have you come from, my friends?" They replied, "We are of the sons of Nahaphtali who live as exiles in Nineveh." 4 She asked them, "Do you know my kinsman, Tobit?" 5 They said, "Yes, we know him." She continued, "Is he in good health?" Then Tobias said, "Tobit is my father."

6 Ragouel ran towards him and covered him with kisses, then in tears he blessed Tobias and said to him, "Blessings on you, you are the son of a good and worthy man!"

When he learned that Tobit had lost his sight he grieved and wept. "What a misfortune that a man who is so just and generous should become blind!" 8 His wife Edna and his daughter Sara wept also and they received Tobias and Raphael with great kindness.

They killed a sheep and served them numerous dishes.

How God’s children marry

• After they had bathed and washed, as they were relaxing before the meal, Tobias said to Raphael, "Friend Azarias, tell Ragouel to give me Sara my kinswoman. Talk about what you were saying during our journey, that the matter may come about and be accomplished." 10 Ragouel overheard the conversation and he said to Tobias, "Eat, drink and be merry tonight. You are the man who has most right to take Sara my daughter because you are my kinsman. Indeed it is impossible for me to give her to any other man but you, because you are my closest relative. But, my son, I must tell you the whole story. I gave her to seven husbands from among our kinsmen. They each died on the wedding night. But, for the moment, my son, eat and drink and the Lord will arrange things for you."

Tobias said, "I shall eat nothing if you do not stop now and bring this matter to a conclusion." Ragouel said to Tobias, "Take her from now on; I give her to you according to the Law of Moses and you have to understand that God himself gives her to you. Receive your kinswoman, from now on you are her brother and she is your sister. She is yours from today and forever. Now God will bless you this night and may he give you both his mercy and peace."

12 He called his daughter Sara and taking her by the hand, he gave her to Tobias as his wife. He said, "According to Moses’ Law, take her now and bring her to your father’s house." And he blessed them. 13 Ragouel then called Edna his wife; taking a sheet of parchment, he wrote down a matrimonial contract and they both affixed their seals. 14 Then they all began to eat. 15 Ragouel called his wife and said to her "My sister, prepare the other room and take Sara there." 16 Edna did as Ragouel told her and she took Sara to this room and Sara began to cry. Edna dried her daughter’s tears and said, "Have courage, my child, the God of heaven and earth will change your sorrow into joy. Have confidence, my daughter!"

8 1 When they had finished eating and drinking they wished to go to bed, so they escorted Tobias to the bedroom where Sara was. 4 Tobias remembered Raphael’s words. He took the liver and the heart of the fish which he had in a basket and put them on the hot coals of incense. 3 The smell of the fish made the devil flee to the upper regions of Egypt where Raphael chanted him up.

4 When Sara’s parents had left the room and closed the door, Tobias got up from the bed and said to Sara, "Get up, my sister, and let us ask the Lord to have mercy on us and save us." 5 She got up and they began to pray, asking that they be given life. Tobias began like this, "May you be blessed, O Lord God of our fathers, and may your holy and glorious Name be blessed forever. May the heavens and all creatures bless you. 6 You created Adam and you gave him Eve, his wife, as a helper and companion, so that from these two the human race might be born. You said: ’It is not good that man should be alone, let us give him a companion who is like himself.’ 7 Now, Lord, I take my sister to myself in sincerity and love, not merely seeking pleasure. Have mercy on us and grant us a long life together.” 8 Together they said, “Amen,” 9 and returned to bed for the night.

Ragouel got up early and called his servants and told them to dig a grave. 10 For he said to himself, “What if this man should also die and we become an object of scorn and reproach.” 11 Then Ragouel entered the house and said to his wife, 12 Edna, “Send one of the maidservants to see if Tobias is alive. If he has died, we will bury him without anyone knowing.”

13 The maidservant opened the door and saw them asleep. 14 She then went to tell them that Tobias was alive. 15 Ragouel blessed the Lord saying, “May you be blessed, O Lord, with all pure and holy blessings. May the saints and all your creatures bless you. May all the angels and the elect bless you forever. 16 May you be blessed for having filled me with joy. What I feared has not happened, but you have treated us with great kindness 17 and have had mercy on these two who are only children. Have mercy on them, Lord, and give them your grace and protection so that they may be blessed with good health and great joy all their lives. May they always live in your grace.”

18 Then he sent his servants to fill in the grave before daybreak.

Ragouel organized for Tobias and Sara a wedding feast which was to last fourteen days. 19 He told his wife to bake a batch of bread. He went to the stable, brought out two oxen and four sheep and ordered that they be killed and prepared. 20 He then called Tobias and said to him, “You will stay here for fourteen days, eating and drinking in my house, and you will bring joy to my daughter, who has suffered so much.” Ragouel swore an oath and told Tobias that he should not set out before the fourteen days of the wedding festivities were over. And he said, “You will go home to your father in safety. 21 You will take with you half of my possessions; the other half will be yours when I and Edna die. Have confidence, my son, I am now your father and Edna is your mother. From now on we shall be close to you and your wife. Have confidence!”

1 Tobias called Raphael and said to him, “Brother Azarias, please take with you a manservant and two camels and go to Rages in Media. 2 Call on Gabael, give him the receipt and recover the money. Then invite Gabael to the wedding feast. You saw that Ragouel made me swear an oath, so I may not depart from this house without breaking the oath. 4 Yet you know that my father is counting the days and if I delay longer than necessary he will be worried.

5 Raphael set out for Rages in Media and stayed the night in Gabael’s house. Raphael presented him with the receipt, and Gabael brought out the sealed bags of money and gave them to him. 6 The next morning they arose early and set off to the wedding. When they entered Ragouel’s house, they found Tobias at the table. Gabael went to him and embraced him. He wept and blessed Tobias saying, “Good and worthy man, son of a good and honest father, a man who is just and compassionate, may the Lord of Heaven bless you and your wife. May he also bless the father and mother of your wife. Blessed be God because I have seen Tobias, my cousin, who is so like his father.”

10 Each morning Tobit counted how many days it would be before Tobias would return from his journey. When the time was up and his son, Tobias, and his companion, Raphael, had not yet returned, 2 he thought, “Maybe he has received a refusal, or perhaps Gabael is dead and there is no one to hand over the money.” 3 He became very sad.

4 Anna his wife said, “My son is dead or he would not delay so long.” She began to lament over him saying, 5 “Why did I let you go, light of my eyes!” 6 Tobit said to her, “Calm yourself, my sister. Do not worry. He is well.” 7 She replied, “Keep quiet, do not try to deceive me, my child is dead.” Every day she went out along the road which her son had taken. By day, she took no food; by night, she never ceased crying, unable to sleep.

When the fourteen days of festivities were over during which Ragouel had sworn that Tobias should stay with him, Tobias went to Ragouel and said, “Let me return home because my parents will certainly be despairing that they will never see me again.” 8 Ragouel replied, “Stay with me and I will send messengers to your father to give him news of you.” 9 Tobias said, “No, let me go to them.” 10 Then Ragouel handed over to him his wife Sara and half of all his goods: servants, oxen, sheep, donkeys, camels, clothes, silver and various other things. Ragouel blessed them and allowed them to set out. 11 Bidding farewell to Tobias he said to him, “Goodbye, my son, safe journey! May the Lord of Heaven bless you and make you fruitful and may I see your children before I die.”

12 To his daughter, Sara, he said, “Honor your parents-in-law, since from now on they are your parents just as we are who gave you life. Go in peace, my daughter, and may we always hear good things of you.” He embraced her and let them depart. Edna, in her turn, said to Tobias, “My dear son, may the Lord bring you back one day so that I may see your children and be happy before the Lord. I entrust my daughter to your care. Do not cause her any sadness.”
13 After that Tobias left Ragouel’s house. He praised God who had brought his journey to such a happy conclusion, and he blessed Ragouel and his wife, Edna.

Tobias returns to his father’s house

When they arrived near Kaserin which faces the city of Nineveh, 2 Raphael said to Tobias, “You know in what state your father Tobit was when we left him; 3 let us go ahead to prepare the house before your wife Sara arrives. 4 Bring with you the gall of the fish.” The dog also went with them, walking behind them.

Now Anna was sitting there, scanning the road along which her son should return. 6 She saw Tobias and Raphael coming in the distance and said to the father of Tobias, “Your son is coming with the man who accompanied him.”

While Tobias and Raphael were still going along the road, Raphael said to Tobias, “I am sure that your father will regain his sight.

Rube his eyes with the fish gall and when he feels his eyes itching, he will rub them and the film will come away like scales from his eyes. He will regain his sight and see the light.”

Anna ran to meet Tobias and threw her arms around his neck saying, “At last I have seen you again, my child. Now I can die!” And both of them began to cry. 10 Tobit also got up and, stumbling, arrived at the door of the courtyard. Tobias ran to him 11 with the fish gall in his hand. He breathed on his father’s eyes, embraced him and said, “Father, have confidence!” 12 Then he spread the fish gall on Tobit’s eyes. Tobias waited. When his eyes began to itch, Tobit rubbed them and with both hands scaled off the film from the corne of his eyes. When Tobit saw his son he threw his arms around Tobias’ neck 14 and began to weep. He said, “Blessed be you, O God. Blessed be your Name forever. Blessed be your holy angels. 15 You have punished me, but you have taken pity on me, and now I can see my son, Tobias.”

Tobias was very happy. After entering the house he told his father about the important things that had happened in Media. He told his father about the successful outcome of his journey, how he got the money, and how he married Sara, daughter of Ragouel, who just then was approaching the gates of Nineveh.

16 Tobit, happy and praising God, went out to meet his daughter-in-law at the gates of Nineveh. All those who saw him, walking alone and unaided, were amazed that he could see. 17 Tobit proclaimed to them that God had taken pity on him and cured him. Then he went to Sara and blessed her saying, “Welcome, daughter! May God be blessed for having brought you to us and may your father and mother also be blessed.”

It was a day of great rejoicing for all Tobit’s relatives who lived in Nineveh. 18 Ahikar, Tobit’s nephew and Nabad arrived (from Elymiade) and the wedding celebrations lasted for a week.

It is fitting to discover and praise the works of God

When the wedding feast was over, Tobit called Tobias, his son, and said to him, “Be sure you give the wages to the man who accompanied you, and we should add something extra.” 2 Tobias said, “What shall I give him? It would not be too much if I were to give him half of what I have brought back since 3 he has brought me home again safe and sound. He has taken care of my wife and he helped me to get back the money. He has also cured your blindness.” 4 The old man said, “That amount would be well justified in his case.”

Then Tobias called the angel and said to him, “Please take half of all that you have brought.” 6 The angel took Tobit and Tobias to one side and said to them, “Bless God, return thanks to him, proclaim his glory and render him thanks before all the living for all he has done for you. It is good to praise God and to exalt his Name, by making known in a worthy manner the story of God’s deeds. Do not be slow in giving him thanks. 7 It is good to hide the secrets of kings but to make known publicly the works of God. Do the works of God. Do good, and evil will not harm you. 8 It is a good thing to accompany prayer with fasting, almsgiving and justice. It is better to do a little with honor than much with injustice. It is better to give alms than to treasure up gold. 9 Almsgiving preserves from death; it purifies from all sin. Those people who give alms and act justly will have a long life, 10 but sinners only harm themselves.

I will hide nothing from you. Yes, I have said that it is good to keep the secrets of kings but to make known publicly the glorious works of God. 12 Tobit, when you and your daughter-in-law Sara prayed, I kept the remembrance of your prayer before the Holy One; when you, Tobit, buried the dead, 13 I was with you in the same way; and when you did not hesitate to rise up and leave your meal in order to hide the dead man, your good deed did not go unnoticed because I was with you. 14 Well, God sent me to cure you and also to cure Sara, your daughter-in-law. 15 I am Raphael, one of the seven holy angels who present the prayers of holy people and who stand before the glory of God.”

16 They both trembled with fear. They threw themselves face downwards on the ground because they were seized with terror. 17 But Raphael said to them, “Do not be afraid; be at peace! Bless God always, 18 for I did not come on my own account but because God willed it. Bless him forever. 19 All the time that I was visible to you I neither ate nor drank anything. I only appeared to do so. 20 Now bless and give thanks to God, because I am returning to the One who sent me. Write down in a book all that has happened.”

21 Then he rose up and disappeared. Tobit and Tobias got up, but Raphael was no longer visible. 22 They made known the great and wonderful works of God and how an angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

The song of Tobit

13 1 Tobit, in an ecstasy of joy, composed a prayer: “Blessed be God, living and reigning for all ages.
2 It is he who punishes and he who has mercy; who makes people go down to hell and rise up again.
No one can escape his hand.
3 Give him thanks, people of Israel, before all the nations.
Though he has dispersed you among them 4 he now shows you his greatness.

Exalt him before all the living,
 because he is our God and Lord,
our Father forever.
5 He punishes us for our wrongdoing
but again he will forgive us.
He will bring us together again from amongst all the nations among whom we have been dispersed.
6 If you turn back to him with all your heart and soul, and live justly before him, then he will turn back to you and will no longer hide his face from you.
7 See what he has done for you and return him thanks aloud.
Bless the Lord who alone is just and praise the King of ages.
8 I, in the land of my captivity, will return him thanks and show his strength and greatness to my sinful people.

Be converted, you sinners, and live justly before him, certain that he will be pleased with you and show you mercy.
9 I will praise my God the King of heaven;
my soul, radiant with happiness, will proclaim his greatness.
10 May all in Jerusalem give thanks to him.
11 Jerusalem, holy city, God will punish you because of the sins of your children, but he will have pity once more on the children of the just.
Jerusalem, return thanks to the Lord in a worthy manner and bless the King of the ages, in order that his Temple may be rebuilt in your midst with joy;
12 that, there, God will gladden your exiles and show love to the unfortunate.
13 Many nations will come from afar to celebrate the Name of the Lord God.
They will carry gifts in their hands, gifts for the King of heaven.
Generation after generation will manifest their joy,
and your name will be glorified forever.
14 Jerusalem, cursed be all who hate you.
Blessed forever be those who love you.
15 You will rejoice and be glad because the children of the just will be gathered again to praise the Lord of all ages.
16 Blessed those who love you, Jerusalem, and rejoice in your peace.
Blessed also those who have sorrowed because of your calamities;
they will rejoice again on seeing your glory and they will share your happiness forever.
May my soul bless God, the great King, because Jerusalem will be rebuilt.
Her gates will be built of sapphires and emeralds, hers walls of precious stones, her towers and ramparts of pure gold, hers squares will be paved with mosaics of beryl, ruby, and stone of Ophir.
18 All her streets will cry out with joy and her inhabitants will shout, “Alleluia.”
They will praise God saying, “Blessed be God who has glorified you forever.”

Last words of Tobit

14 1 In this way Tobit ended his song of thanksgiving. Tobit died peacefully at the age of one hundred and twelve years, and was buried with honor in Nineveh. 2 He was sixty-two years old when he became blind. Eight years later he regained his sight. He lived happily, practiced almsgiving, and continued to praise God and to proclaim his great works. 3 When he was very old he called Tobias and said to him, “My son, you see that I have become old and that I am near death. Take your children 4 and go to Media because I believe in the word of God which Nahum prophesied about Nineveh. Everything that the prophets sent by God pronounced about Assyria and Nineveh will happen. No word will be forgotten but it will all come to pass in due time. Nineveh will be destroyed. You will be safer in Media, where there will be peace for some time, because I am certain and I believe that all that God has said will be fulfilled.

Our brothers and sisters who live in the land of Israel will be dispersed and led away into captivity. As a result the whole of the land of Israel will be deserted. Jerusalem and Samaria will be desolate. The House of God will be burned down and left in ruins for some time. 5 But God will again take pity on his people and they will return to their land. They will rebuild the Temple, though it will not be like the first one until better times come. When that time comes they will all return from captivity. They will rebuild Jerusalem in all its magnificence. In it they will rebuild the House of God in all its glory for all generations to come, just as the prophets have foretold.

5 People of all nations will be converted and know the true God. They will bury their idols which led them into error 7 and they will praise the God of Justice. All the Israelites saved at that time will remember the Lord in all truth. They will come together and go to Jerusalem. They will live securely forever in the land of Abraham which will be given back to them. Those who sincerely love God will rejoice. But sinners and the unjust will disappear from the earth.

6 My son, leave Nineveh. Do not remain here.

9 Now, my children, I give you this advice: serve God and do what is pleasing in his sight. Teach your children how to exercise justice and how to give alms. Teach them also to remember God and to bless his name sincerely at all times, with all their strength.

10 The very day that you bury your mother here beside me, do not stay overnight in this place. I know that the people here commit many injustices and practice great treachery and no one is ashamed of doing so. You see what Nadab did to Ahikar my nephew who had brought him up. He buried him alive. But God punished Nadab by exposing his injustice. He brought Ahikar into the light and sent Nadab down into eternal darkness, because he had tried to kill him. Because he gave alms, Ahikar was delivered from the death planned for him by Nadab. Instead, Nadab fell into the trap and perished. 11 See how almsgiving and uprightness can save you and how wrongdoing leads to death. But I feel I am breathing my last.” They laid him on his bed and he died. He was given an honorable burial.

12 When Anna his mother died, Tobias buried her next to his father. Then Tobias with his wife and family made their way to Media and settled in Ecbatana near Ragouel, his father-in-law. 13 He took great care of his parents-in-law in their old age and he buried them with honor in Ecbatana in Media. Tobias inherited Ragouel’s fortune as well as that of his father Tobit. 14 Tobias died at the age of one hundred and twenty-seven years at Echbatana in Media. 15 But before he died he saw the downfall of Nineveh which Nebuchadnezzar destroyed. He saw the Ninevites and the Assyrians reduced to slavery and taken to Media. Thus, before he died, he was able to rejoice over the fate of Nineveh. He blessed the Lord God forever.
